- # If you order someone NOT to do something they don't want to do, you haven't proved anything about your power.
@ If you order someone to do something they don't want to do, then we know your (lack of) power.

Who Were the Chief Justices of the Supreme Court?

1. 1800-1835 - Chief Justice John Marshall, the Chief Justice appointed by the last Federalist President, John Adams in 1800 during the lame duck period
More power to the national government, to the Supreme Court, and to corporations and contracts
Two cases
 - Marbury v. Madison established judicial review (in part because the executive branch was ordered to do what it planned to do anyway)
 - How review by the court was handled by the executive regarding the Cherokee: There are 2 Supreme Court decisions in favor of the Cherokees, in 1830 and 1832, Cherokee Nation v. Georgia and Worcester v. Georgia. They do not have a consequence, however, because the executive branch ignores them.
2. 1835-1864 - Chief Justice Roger Taney, the jurist with a different view from Marshall who was appointed by Andrew Jackson at Marshall's death.

What Are the Shifts in Who Votes (Suffrage), How Candidates Are Chosen, and How Campaigning Works

Your textbook covers several shifts in suffrage (voting) and in politics:

1. The evolution from property requirements to vote to white universal manhood suffrage about 1828.
2. The shift in how candidates were chosen:
 - From about 1800 to the 1820s, candidates were chosen by a caucus (a talk within a group) of political party members who had been elected to office (as in member of the House of Representatives or a Senator). At that time, Being Secretary of State was considered necessary preparation to run for President because of its responsibilities for foreign policy.
 - The Jacksonian period brought a rejection of what they called "King Caucus" (with King being a dirty word because of its association with King George III). The political party convention replaced it—at that time a very volatile meeting of delegates who choose the candidate for President.
3. The Jacksonian era use of the "spoils system" meant that federal workers chosen by their political party did campaigning for their party as part of their jobs on the federal payroll.

Other things are going on as well to alter voting that your book does not cover. Examples:

- States determine who votes. The NEW western states offered:
 - Not only more opportunities for men to get land (with property being traditionally a voter requirement)
 - But also more liberal voting rules in hopes of getting settlers.
- By the Jacksonian era, citizens in the eastern states began to demand the same voting opportunities as those in the west.
- State laws change, and voters (not the state legislatures) are deciding the Electoral College results.
