What Problems Are the Constitution's Framers Trying to Solve or What Solutions Are They Trying to Keep?

Date	What's the Situation?	What's the Problem ? What's the Solution in the Constitution?
1777	Articles of Confederation – a republic. Its basic rules: 1. Unanimous vote to change the system – That's 13 of 13. 2. 9 of 13 to pass a law (such as a tariff) 3. Can't tax, but can print money and borrow	The solution: Continue the republic (a representative democracy) But eventually the framers will recognize that those 3 basic rules of the Articles are a problem.
1777+	State governments (elected) and state constitutions Note: slavery is a state law	The solution: Continue this. Example: PA abolishes slavery; the South continues "slave codes."
1779	Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom Who wrote it? Thomas Jefferson	Virginia votes in 1785 for no established church. The solution: Part of the Constitution as is freedom of religion
1781	Articles of Confederation – States ratify	-
1781, 1783 ...	No support for a tariff (a tax collected at a port) for revenue	No income The solution: Congress must be able to tax and Congress must be able to pass laws (something true for all below) by shifting - from 2/3 (66+%) vote of the states - to just being more than 50% vote of the representatives with the Constitution
1783	Philadelphia insurrection by unpaid military (one of several)	No income to pay what the nation owed even to our military The solution: Congress must be able to tax.
	Treaty of Paris - US to protect Loyalists, pay debts (US doesn't) - British to leave Ohio Valley (Br also doesn't)	These become part of the problems.
	1 st (of many) state begins to pass protective tariffs to keep out British manufactured goods	Imagine this pretend, simplified example: - 2 neighboring states in the US, one with a tariff of .10 cents on British widgets valued at $2.00 and one with a tariff of $1 on the same widget. In other words, one state's citizens can have a British widget for $2.10, but the other state's citizens pays $3.00 - Crafty citizens in the .10 cent state haul imported widgets across the state line and then sell them for say $2.75— THUS wiping out the usefulness of the protective tariff while making a .65 personal profit per widget. The solution: Congress must be able to regulate interstate (between states) commerce .

Date	What's the Situation?	What's the Problem ? What's the Solution in the Constitution?
1784	Spain blocks Americans from lower Mississippi	Americans in the west can only cheaply market their grains if they can put their crops on barges in the rivers that feed the Mississippi River and float downstream to the Gulf and New Orleans and thus to the great global markets. The solution: Congress must be able to get passable treaties.
	Issue of British Commercial Treaty plus British merchants trade with the state with the lowest tariff.	The varied protective tariffs mean states compete with each other. The solution: Congress must be able to regulate commerce with foreign nations and be able to get passable treaties.
	Draft of Northwest Ordinance (passed in 1787) -Who writes the first draft? Thomas Jefferson	The Northwest Ordinance is usually talked about as the only positive action of the Articles of Confederation era. It setup: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Process for full statehood (not continuing colonial status as the British did) where an area became a territory with appointed governor, then when it had enough population wrote a state constitution and asked to be admitted, and finally when admitted had equal voting rights with any other state (no matter how old) - No slavery - Sale of public lands to support public education (Additional information not in your textbook) The solution: Continue this.
	States governments (PA, SC, NC, NY, RI, NJ, GA) issuing paper money	Paper money not backed by real assets leads to deadly inflation. The solution: Only Congress must be the only level of government that can print or coin money.
1786	Annapolis Convention – interstate commerce issues, but only 12 delegates	The solution: Congress must be able to regulate interstate (between states) commerce.
	Daniel Shays's Rebellion (the word means?)	Unpaid veterans, state taxes, currency and debtors/creditors The solution: Congress must guarantee that mobs (even well intentioned) can't take over government, including of a state.

What Happens at the Convention, What Are the Major Factions, Who Is Not Represented, and What Are the Major Structures of Government

Date	Major Issues	Details
1787-05 -09	Philadelphia Convention - Why a convention?	The states had experimented with this method. Reason: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Think for a minute. If Richmond city government in 2000 passes a law saying folks can raise pigs in the city but in 2003 passes a law saying they can't, which law is true. The LAST law wins. Legislation by those chosen to create laws can be changed by just having a different city government. 2. Conventions of representative citizens for the purpose of writing a Constitution, move the process offline and make the document not comparatively temporary legislation, but permanent. The solution: Write the Constitution in a convention.
	- Who are the factions there? - Big state/small state	The solution: Like most arrangements in the Constitution, this splits the difference: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - House of Representatives and representation based on the number of people in the state pleased big states (PA, NY, VA) - Senate with 2 votes per state pleased small states (NJ, MA)
	- Slave owners	Slave owners got: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 3/5 of slaves counted toward their representation in the House of Representatives (and taxation) - Fugitive slave return - No ending of the slave trade until 1808
	- What about....?	Not women Not Americans Not Native Americans as citizens (as nations within the nation)
	- What major structures beyond the legislature	President <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Election every 4 years but by the electoral college (and how the South benefited) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> o Not by the vote of Congress o Not by the vote of citizens Note: Congress can impeach the President - Executes the laws Note: Congress—not the Constitution and not the President—set up the specific departments (War, Treasury, State) and the Attorney General and the Postmaster General - Foreign policy Note: Senate must vote for treaties. Note: like the Constitution and federal laws, treaties are also the “supreme Law of the Land” - Commander and chief Note: only Congress can declare war. Supreme Court and its Chief Justice <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Interprets the Constitution - Has some appellate responsibilities Note: Congress set up the federal judicial system, including the number of justices.

The Ratification of the Constitution

Date	Major Issues	Details
1787-1788	Federalists and Federalist Papers	Federalists = name that minimizes the strong central government desired by the framers and maximizes attention on the 2 levels of government (central and state) that existed in the plan. Federalist Papers = Publications in newspapers to try to convince states to ratify the Constitution. Who writes it? = James Madison, Alexander Hamilton, and John Jay. Madison argues for a republic (government by elected representatives), not a democracy. The Constitution's framers reject democracy, aristocracy, and monarchy. If you want to be sure of their support for the republic, go into the Constitution Study Tool and enter the letters repub. Then try the first letters of the other 3 forms of government listed. The only one you'll find is republic
	Anti-Federalists	Anti-Federalist? = men such as Patrick Henry, Sam Adams, John Dickinson Why? Such issues as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Secrecy of the convention. - That the focus of government shifted from the states to the central government. - That there was no statement of rights preserved to the people and the states - Method used to replace the Articles of Confederation -
1789	What's the method of approval of the Constitution?	Method used to replace the Articles of Confederation = 9 of 13 states 5 states asked for a Bill of Rights. Federalists had argued against that saying it was unnecessary.
1789	Bill of Rights	In running for a seat in the House of Representatives, Madison promised his constituency that he would work for the Bill of Rights. He went through existing lists of rights and came up with 12, of which 10 were later ratified by the states.
