

Essay Tests, question 2 Version B

2. b) John Calvin had great influence in the colonies, or at least his beliefs did. ^{rather the most popular,} The main Calvinists that appear in New England are the Puritans. The lives of the Puritans where they settled, primarily Massachusetts and New York were ruled by their religions. The towns of Puritans were run primarily by the congregation and it seemed to be a theocratic society. The Puritans were also highly traditional and looked down on innovative minds such as Anne Hutchinson and Roger Williams, because they did not conform.
